

ORGANIZED BASEBALL SCORES IN STRUGGLE

BOSTON AMERICANS SIGN TRIS SPEAKER FOR TWO YEARS

Tigers Get Sam Crawford and Browns Keep Pitcher Leverniz—
Federalists Unable to Secure Players
—Evers Matter Is Left to President Tender.

New York, March 6.—Organized baseball scored heavily here today in the struggle with the Federal League for the services of the players who completed their round-the-world tour early today. The Boston Americans signed Tris Speaker for two years; the Detroit Americans closed a contract with Sam Crawford and the St. Louis Americans kept Pitcher Leverniz in line with a considerable raise in salary.

Although the Federal League magnates were in conference with all these players they were unable to secure their services and the best they could do with Mike Doolan of the Philadelphia Nationals and Dick Egan of Brooklyn, was to obtain a promise to consider the propositions made by the new organization. "Steve" Evans and Lee Magee of the St. Louis Nationals were also reported to be comparing the offers of the two forces.

Organized Baseball Holds Lead.
It was a day of propositions, counter-propositions, conferences and contract flashing, but at midnight organized baseball was still holding the lead which it gained when several of the National and American League magnates boarded the Steamer Lusitania far down the bay while the Federal Leaguers were forced to wait for several hours at the pier before they could communicate with those among the returning players they desired to sign. Their consolation, if it might be so termed, was the knowledge that they had forced the magnates of the two major leagues to pay to those players who signed salaries which surpassed their most exalted anticipations.

The climax of the day's doings in the realm of high finance came when President Joseph J. Lannin of the Boston American League club, announced he had secured the signature of Outfielder Tris Speaker to a two year contract at a salary "larger than any heretofore paid a player" in the ranks.

In addition he stated he had given Speaker a neat bonus for signing. While he would not say what the amount of the salary was, it was reported in baseball circles tonight it was to be $18,000 per year.

Are Given Increase.
President Frank J. Navin of the Detroit Americans did not have to bid so high for Sam Crawford's services as the St. Louis Browns did to such extremes for Pitcher Leverniz, but in each case there was a considerable increase in the 1914 salaries over last season. The National League as a whole was not as successful as setting up the Chicago-Boston club deal for the services of Johnny Evers or in finding a new owner of the Chicago club. After two lengthy sessions the board of directors announced that the final settlement of the Evers' trade had been left to President John K. Tener. The National League executive in a statement said:

"I don't expect to reach a final decision in the matter for a week or ten days. As the matter stands now Evers, Sweeney and Purdie are all the property of the Boston club but an equitable and satisfactory agreement will be reached protecting the different clubs' rights."

It was persistently rumored during the day that the Chicago club would be purchased by John T. Connelly, a wealthy coal operator of Chicago, who came east with the party of Chicago fans to welcome the returning White Sox and Giants. Late tonight Mr. Connelly denied emphatically that he intended to buy a controlling interest in the club either for himself or a Chicago syndicate.

All the club owners together with major and minor league officials will remain here for the banquet to be tendered the White Sox and Giants touring party tomorrow night. Although the Federal League promoters have not been invited to attend they will also stay in New York. It was announced by President James A. Gilmore, with the idea of coming to terms with those players who show a desire to consider their offers.

RULES THAT ROAD TAXES SHOULD BE PAID TO HIGHWAY TREASURER
PONTIAC, Ills., March 6.—Judge T. M. Harris in a decision today ruled that the 1913 road and bridge tax should be paid the treasurer of the highway commissioners as under the old law. The question arose as a result of the recently enacted Tice road law which provides that the tax be paid the supervisor of the township.

Anticipating that the matter of compensation would come up in the future Judge Harris ruled the treasurer should receive no compensation.

GEORGE W. VANDERBILT DIES IN A WASHINGTON HOSPITAL

Was Youngest and Probably the Least Known of Sons of the Late William Vanderbilt.

Washington, March 6.—George W. Vanderbilt of New York died here today from the effects of an operation for appendicitis several days ago. Mr. Vanderbilt's death today came unexpectedly. He was operated upon last Tuesday and reports issued from his residence from time to time since then declared that his condition was improving and that no alarm was felt for his recovery.

Mr. Vanderbilt was the youngest and probably the least known of the sons of the late William Vanderbilt. He never took an active part in the business and financial world where other members of the family gained wealth and distinction. He was a student and a traveler and his chief interest was his magnificent estate at Biltmore, near Asheville, N. C., where he spent the greater part of his time.

Mr. Vanderbilt was born in the old Vanderbilt home at New Dorp, Staten Island, Nov. 14th, 1862. George Vanderbilt's fortune was never a factor in Wall street. He was supposed, however, to have been one of the America's wealthiest men. He had a number of charities and spent money without stint upon the development of his mountain estate. He seldom came to New York but spent his summers at Bar Harbor, Maine, where he had a handsome home.

In 1898 Mr. Vanderbilt married Miss Edith Stuyvesant Dresser. Mrs. Vanderbilt and one child, a daughter, survive him.

Place Flags at Half Mast.
Asheville, N. C., March 6.—Flags were half masted on all public buildings here today when news was received of the death of George W. Vanderbilt who has done more than any other man to build up this section of North Carolina.

Mr. Vanderbilt owned about 140,000 acres of land, extending 37 miles southwest from Asheville. His magnificent home, Biltmore, near here, is said to have cost five million dollars. The model village of Biltmore is laid out in old English style.

CHICAGO BOARD WILL WELCOME PROBE OF GRAIN EXCHANGES

Would Prefer Investigation by Joint Committee of Members of Congress and Business Men Selected by President.

Washington, March 6.—An exhaustive investigation of grain exchanges preferably by a joint commission of members of congress and business men selected by the president would be welcomed by the Chicago board of trade.

Officers and members of the board so declared today before the house committee in an answer to charges that the board is involved in a monopolistic combine which arbitrarily fixes the price of wheat on the farms. The committee will conclude its hearings on the Manahan resolution urging an investigation tomorrow when officials and members of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce will be heard. President C. H. Canby, Vice-President J. P. Griffin and former President H. N. Sager of the Chicago board were before the committee today, all denying that there was even a possibility of monopoly and describing the present system of marketing farm products as the best that human ingenuity had yet evolved. Trading in futures, they said was the backbone of the system, the method that made it possible to give the grower every day a market for his products.

TO FORCE TEST OF LAW WHICH PROHIBITS SPRING DUCK KILLING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 6.—A. C. Connor of this city, president of the Illinois State Sportsman's association has taken steps to force a test decision on the constitutionality of the federal statute which prohibits killing ducks in the spring of the year. With this end in view, Mr. Connor has issued an invitation to federal officers to visit his hunting lodge near Havana on March 10th, 11 or 12th, declaring that if there are any ducks lying on any of those dates they will have the opportunity of seeing him shoot them and cause his arrest.

The federal law prohibiting spring shooting went into effect the first of the year and while there has been apparently little sportsmen to enforce the new statute sportsmen generally have respected its provisions although the spring shooting along the Illinois river, and elsewhere in the state has always been regarded as the best of the year.

SON AND GRANDSON OF LATE JOHN SEBASTIAN GET ONLY $1 EACH

CHICAGO, March 6.—Don B. Sebastian and John Sebastian, son and grandson of the late John Sebastian, former vice-president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, were given $1 each from his $62,000 estate, according to his will filed today. The remainder was given to his widow, Mrs. Irene L. Sebastian, who was named executrix. Marcus L. Bell, general attorney for the railroad, who drew up the will, said Mr. Sebastian was on friendly terms with his son but expected his widow to provide for him.

KILL MINE OPERATOR'S SON.

CHARGE MANIPULATION OF BOOK ACCOUNTS

COMMISSION ISSUES REPORT ON PROBE OF C. M. & ST. P. ROAD

Cites Various Instances of Unlawful Overstatement of Income—Commissioner Harlan Says Company Is a Valuable Property—President Gives Answer.

Washington, March 6.—Charges that the book accounts of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company and of its subsidiary Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway company have been so manipulated as to mislead the public and tend to create a more favorable market for the securities of the roads, were contained in a report made public today by the interstate commerce commission after an exhaustive investigation of the financial affairs of the roads.

Various instances of unlawful overstatement of income were cited. While criticizing and condemning the accounting methods followed by the companies, however, Commissioner Harlan who prepared the report said: "We do not mean to say that anything by anything here said as intimating that the St. Paul company is not a valuable property and is not achieving the results reasonably anticipated from the extension of its line to the Pacific coast."

The disclosures by the investigation of what Commissioner Harlan describes in the report as serious irregularities in the accounting system of the roads were regarded by the commission as in defensible although the officers of the St. Paul company explained they resulted from negligence, inattention and a lack of familiarity on the part of the committee's comptroller and those under him with the requirements of the committee.

A general admission contained in the report made it clear that the commission hereafter will hold to strict accountability all common carriers for the accuracy and truthfulness of the statements contained in their reports of financial operations.

"Under the accounting rules of the commission," the report says, "the St. Paul company was permitted to include in its accounts a proper revenue for the transportation of mail and material, rents for equipment and other of its facilities used in the construction of Puget Sound and interest on the funds advanced. That course, however, was not pursued. On the contrary, the St. Paul company included in its income accounts for the year 1910 all the interest and revenues assignable to the period prior to July 1st, 1909, the sum total amounting to over $4,600,000."

The unlawful practices were continued after June 30th, 1910 and the fictitious showing of income for that period was used by the officers of the Puget Sound company to aid in the sale of its bonds.

States Accuracy Was Intended.
Chicago, March 6.—A. J. Earling, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad asserted tonight there had been no intention to make other than accurate statements of operating or financial condition for the purpose of promoting the sale of stock or for any other purpose.

MRS. BELMONT THREATENS SEN. ASHURST WITH SUFFRAGIST WAR

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Mrs. O. H. Belmont, served notice on Senator Ashurst today that the suffragists would declare war on him if he permitted the woman suffrage constitutional amendment to go to a vote in the senate at this time when there is doubt that it might command the necessary two thirds vote. A prolonged but futile attempt was made to get unanimous consent to limit debate on the resolution and take a final vote next Tuesday. The discussion will be resumed Monday.

Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee of the national American Woman Suffrage association, in a statement commenting tonight on the telegram of Mrs. Belmont to Senator Ashurst, said: "Mrs. Belmont holds no office in the national American Woman Suffrage association and cannot speak for its 62,000 members. As representing the national association we deem it for the best interests of our cause to have a vote on the pending amendment immediately upon the close of the discussion in the senate."

ILLINOIS MINERS WILL TAKE NO ACTION ON PRESENT WAGE SCALE

PEORIA, Ill., March 6.—No action on the present wage scale will be taken by the Illinois division of the United Mine Workers of America in convention here. This announcement was made today. It was declared the wage proposition will be taken up at a later date, the delay resulting from the adjourned Philadelphia wage scale meeting.

Little besides the convention city and the new location of the state headquarters remains for the delegates at the Peoria convention to consider and it is probable that an adjournment will be taken tomorrow.

TO STERILIZE CONVICTS.
Des Moines, Ia., March 6.—Orders for the sterilization of twenty convicts in the state penitentiary at Fort Madison and the reformatory at Anamosa, under a new state law were issued by the state board of control here today and forwarded to the authorities of those institutions.

W. E. CRANE IS NAMED A RECEIVER OF SOUTHERN TRACTION COMPANY

Former Senator Is Also a Receiver of Road—It Is Understood That Mr. Crane Will Have Active Charge of Property.

Danville, Ill., March 6.—Former United States Senator Lorimer of Chicago and Wilber E. Crane of St. Louis and John A. Hamilton of Marissa, Ill., were today named as receivers for the Southern Traction company, a combined electric and steam railway operating between East St. Louis and Belleville toward Duquoin. Federal Judge Wright named the receivers following a petition of Jared Y. Sanders, former governor of Louisiana and a heavy stockholder.

Sanders stated that the road needed about $20,000 to connect the tracks so that freight and passengers could be handled profitably. After the naming of three receivers and fixing a bond of $25,000 each, Mr. Lorimer stated the money was ready and that operations could be resumed within forty-eight hours.

It is understood that W. E. Crane, who is as much a citizen of Jacksonville as of St. Louis will be in active charge of the railroad property. Several months since Mr. Crane examined the property and made a report as a railroad expert and more recently went to Europe with Mr. Lorimer to present the matter to certain London capitalists. The receivership was decided upon as the best method of bringing the property to early completion. The construction of the road has been under way several years but has been delayed in one way and another. The road is designed primarily for connecting up a large number of coal mines in the vicinity of St. Louis. Mr. Crane's experience in railroad traffic and financial affairs, qualifies him well for the work he will undertake.

TAKE INITIAL STEPS TO REPEAL TOLL EXEMPTION CLAUSE OF ACT

Members Report a Large Majority in Both Houses Will Vote For a Flat
Repeal of Measure.

Washington, March 6.—Initial steps to repeal the toll exemption clause of the Panama canal act, as requested by President Wilson were taken in congress today when the senate committee on interstate commerce reported favorably a bill to strike out the provision. In the senate the committee on inter-oceanic canals decided to meet next week to consider the repeal of the president for a reversal of policy in the controversy which involves the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, and the opinion of the president the general foreign relations policy of the administration. While the house is debating the issue next week the senate committee will consider what course to pursue whether to recommend a flat repeal bill or to urge the compromise bill offered by the Senator Chilton of West Virginia, member of the committee which would authorize the president to regulate tolls and assess charges at his discretion.

Representative Adamson will take charge of the situation in the house as Majority Leader Underwood for the first time during the administration finds himself on the anti-administration side of the question. Representative Underwood has announced his intention of not only voting against the bill, but also of making a speech against it.

Members of the house and senate who will aid in the repeal fight announced tonight they had made a poll of congress and that a large majority in both houses were ready to vote for a flat repeal measure immediately.

SCORE OF WITNESSES TELL OF ASSAULTS ON NON-UNION MEN

HOUGHTON, Mich., March 6.—A score of witnesses told the congressional committee investigating the Michigan copper strike today of assaults on non-union men and other alleged acts of violence committed by strikers and sympathizers.

John Latola, a miner told the committee he had given up his card in the Western Federation of Miners, last January and returned to work because he discovered the strike leaders were preaching unlawful doctrine. He said he had been convinced soon after the strike opened that the leaders stood for lawlessness but had remained out until January because of public opinion.

His testimony was expunged from the record on motion of O. N. Hilton counsel for the strikers on the ground it did not show unlawful acts were directly traceable to specific speeches of the leaders. Congressman Switzer asked to be recorded as favoring the admission of Latola's testimony.

MEXICO WILL NOT TOLERATE MEDIATION

PRESIDENT HUERTA GIVES REPLY IN ANSWER TO QUESTION

Query Is Based on Assumption That Chile, Argentine and Brazil Were Disposed to Extend Their Good Offices—Cabinet Discusses Importance of Carranza's Future
Attitude Toward U. S.

Mexico City, March 6.—Mediation in any form in the Mexican revolution by foreign governments will not be tolerated by Mexico.

This reply was given today by President Huerta to a question based on the assumption that Chile, Argentine and Brazil were disposed to extend their good offices. These countries have followed the example of the United States in not recognizing the Huerta government.

As indicated by Huerta's intention to increase the strength of the army the executive today issued a decree providing for the appointment of five division generals of the army, a rank not now in existence, and ten generals of corps.

Discuss Importance of Attitude.

Washington, March 6.—Although the American government intends to suspend any further development of its policy toward Mexico until the commission of Mexican constitutionalists now investigating the recent execution of William S. Benton, a British subject, has made a report, today's cabinet meeting here developed a discussion of the importance of Carranza toward the United States. High officials of the administration believe the fortunes of the constitutionalist movement hang largely in the balance and that only a clear explanation of the Benton incident and satisfactory reparation to those responsible will regain for them the prestige they had acquired as persons desiring the restoration of constitutional government in their country.

Should the Benton case remain unsettled and the event the result of the constitutionalists is triumphant, there are strong intimations heard in official circles that Great Britain would refuse to recognize Carranza if he were elected. It is also taken for granted by officials that Great Britain might influence other European nations to withhold recognition until reparation is made for injury done foreigners.

Administration officials here in discussing that phase of the situation today pointed out that on the Benton case seemed to be dependent the political future of General Carranza. The point raised by Carranza that he need not supply information to the United States about British subjects of other foreigners is not regarded seriously now as there are assurances from some of Carranza's friends that this attitude will be modified. The expected discussion in the open senate of the Mexican situation began today with a speech by Senator Works of California. Republican who arraigned the government's Mexican policy.

Will Make Requisition.

Dallas, Texas, March 6.—Governor O. B. Colquhoun of Texas, will make a requisition on both federal and rebel authorities in the states of Nuevo Leon and Coahuila, Mexico, for the return of the four men held responsible for the kidnapping of the missing American ranchman, Clemente Vergara. The governor made this announcement tonight after he had received a telegram from Secretary of State Bryan saying the question of requisition was one of justice and not of diplomacy and concerned only local authorities.

General Joaquin Maas, federal commander of the arrests of the men wanted.

Terrazas Case at Standstill.

El Paso, Texas, March 6.—The case of Luis Terrazas whose life has in effect been declared forfeited under 500,000 pesos are forthcoming by Sunday was in status quo tonight.

The ransom has not been paid, as General Luis Terrazas, father of the prisoner, claims that out of his vast fortune no such sum is available. Felix Martinez, prominent politician in this section is reported to have telegraphed Secretary Bryan asking him to use his good offices in behalf of the younger Terrazas.

FORMER COUNSEL FOR THAW IS DISBARRED FROM PRACTICE

NEW YORK, March 6.—Clifford H. Hartridge, counsel for Harry Thaw at his first trial for the killing of Stanford White, was disbarred from the practice of law today by the appellate division of the supreme court. The court found that Hartridge had squandered $7,000 to induce women witnesses who might have testified against Thaw to leave the city.

Thaw Denies Charge.
Concord, N. H., March 6.—Commenting on the disbarment of Clifford H. Hartridge in New York today, Harry K. Thaw in a statement tonight said that Hartridge had never spent a cent to suppress any evidence. The lawyer had never made any pretense of doing so until two years after he had ceased to act as Thaw's counsel. Thaw claimed.

POSTMASTER APPOINTMENTS.
Washington, March 6.—President Wilson today nominated these postmasters: Louis A. Stoll, Aurora, Ill.; Joseph K. Ramer, West Chicago, Ill.

UNEMPLOYED MAY NOT HAVE TO MARCH ALL WAY TO WASHINGTON

People of California Are Raising Money To Send Men From One
County to Another.

San Francisco, Cal., March 6.—"General" Kelly's army of unemployed may not have to "march" all the way to Washington as per the plans and specifications of the jobless leaders. Instead, the "army" stands an excellent chance of reaching the capital on regular railroad trains and with money in its pocket.

Costa Rica county today, when it view the jobless ranks, immediately raised $799.50 in railroad fares and shipped the army on to Benicia, Solano county. Benicia also became frightened at the size of the "army" and at once made preparations to send the "soldiers" by railroad to Yolo and Sacramento counties.

These counties it is said are preparing to buy more railroad fares to pass the "army" along. "Colonel" Louis La Place, attached to the staff of "General" Kelly, deserted last night and returned to San Francisco. He says the "army" consists of 1,172 officers and privates and is growing in numbers daily.

OLD FASHIONED PARTISAN DEBATE SIDE-TRACKS SUFFRAGE

Senator Works Hurls Broadside of Criticism at Administration's Record While Senator Simmons Defends It.

Washington, March 6.—An old fashioned partisan debate on one year of Democratic rule almost completely side-tracked consideration of the woman suffrage constitutional amendment in the senate today.

Senator Works hurled a broad side of criticism at the administration's record while Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee staunchly defended his party's legislative career. He drew from Senator Smoot a counter attack on his tariff remarks, the Utah senator basing his statements largely on treasury statistics.

Senator Works' arraignment of the Democratic rule culminated in an attack on its Mexican policy as hopeless. Senator Simmons avoided stirring up this delicate matter by limiting his reply to legislative accomplishments. He resented particularly the remark that congress had been deprived of its function by executive dictation and caucus rule.

The senator said that tendency toward paternalism and extravagance in the appropriation of public money was a marked characteristic feature of the administration. He declared it was evident to everybody that the administration is opposed to granting suffrage to the women "but lacks the courage to come out openly and oppose it."

Further Interruption of Business Is Caused by Great Snowstorm East Has Ever Experienced For a Quarter Century.

New York, March 6.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "Mixed aspects loom large in this week's trade reports. Stormy weather in the east tied up traffic and kept buyers away from the markets. JUDGE AKES CONSPIRACY AND REBATING CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT DANVILLE, Ill., March 6.—Judge F. M. Wright in the United States district court today heard arguments on demurrer in the case of the C. C. & St. Louis, C. I. & S. and Grand Trunk railway of Canada and the O'Gara Coal company, charged with conspiracy and rebating on coal shipments from the O'Gara mines in Southern Illinois and took the matter under advisement. A plea to jurisdiction was filed by the Grand Trunk sworn to by the Vice-president of that road before the United States consul at Montreal. The court held that kind of a plea was not proper in a criminal proceeding and it was stricken from the files.

BRITISH MAJOR IS KILLED IN SKIRMISH

DIES IN FIGHT BETWEEN TROOPS AND TRIBESMEN IN AFRICA

Leaders of Outlaws and Others of Bands Are Killed or Taken Prisoners—Wounded Lieutenant Takes Stockade With Three Orderlies.

London, March 6.—News has just reached here of two skirmishes between British troops and tribesmen in Africa. In the first of these Major James Lionel Joyce Conry of the Conaught Rangers, who was awarded the distinguished service order medal in South Africa 1900, was killed near Wadai Had, in the Sudan.

Major Conry was in charge of a contingent of an Arab battalion of the Egyptian army. The leaders of the outlaws and other members of the band were killed and the remainder made prisoners.

Besides Major Conry the British troops lost three men, killed and four wounded.

In the second affair, Lieutenant Jones was shot through both legs during an attack on a stockade by Abyssinian raiders in British East Africa. When Lieutenant Jones was injured, all his soldiers except three fled. These men at Jones' command re-took the stockade by assault.

Two of the soldiers, both natives, then bore the wounded officer on a stretcher 500 miles to his post. Blood poisoning meantime had set in and Jones was conveyed to another post where a doctor was stationed. His bearers found the doctor absent, however, and a journey to Nairobi was started. On the way the stretcher was charged by two Rhinos which the faithful orderlies killed. At Nyiri, a doctor and a nurse were found.

ROMBERANTIN, France, March 6.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, the American artist, took the witness stand in his own defense when he and Miss Charlotte Herman were brought up here today to stand trial for kidnapping Earle's son by his first wife. Miss Herman, through an interpreter, testified that Earle always had treated his son well. In taking the boy away from the school, she declared, she merely decided to render a service to Earle, who was distressed at not having his son with him.

Mme. Fishbacher's lawyer said the court must respect the decision of the tribunal of the Seine awarding the boy to her custody. The lawyer read numerous letters from Earle expressing a desire to see his son. The case was adjourned until tomorrow.

PUBLIC LIBRARY AFFAIRS.
As related in the proceedings of the Public Library board elsewhere in this issue, Miss Lorena Webber has resigned her position as librarian and will leave Jacksonville about April 1st. The recent death of her brother-in-law has made it necessary for Miss Webber to live with her sister in Renwick, Iowa, and she will give up her work for that reason. The board accepted the resignation with regret realizing that Miss Webber is giving valuable services to the public in her present position.

Fully equipped for her work, with indefatigable energy and boundless enthusiasm, Miss Webber has planned and accomplished large things in making the library here a sort of social center. Her ideal has been that the library should not be simply a place where people could go to read or to look up references or to borrow books, but a place of inspiration and general helpfulness for the people. In accomplishing her purpose, to a larger degree than the library board thought possible, within so short a time, Miss Webber has given positive evidence not only of her ability but also of her genuine devotion to the work for which she prepared. The people generally will regret that duty calls her elsewhere for during her direction of library work they have come to know that the one desire of the library management has been service. Miss Webber in addition to other qualities has the still rarer one of tact and all her relations with the public have been of the most cordial kind.

The library board feels a distinct loss in Miss Webber's going and at the same time feels fortunate that the services of Miss Barrett can be secured so speedily. Miss Barrett served for a year or more in the library here in charge of the children's department and more recently has been in charge of the reference work of the Davenport, Iowa, library. Miss Barrett had special training for her library work, has had ample experience and what is still more important is genuinely interested in the work. Out in Davenport, where she has taken a special delight in aiding some of the poorer patrons of the library, she has become known as "the lady with the soft voice."

Dr. E. F. Baker believes that the public library should have a new edition of the encyclopedia Britannica and at the same time recognizes the fact that the board can not well spend for anyone set of books the sum which these books would cost. He has offered to give $25 toward the $140 or $150 for the books cost and the board is hoping that the doctor's good example will be emulated by others and that the total sum may speedily be raised. The Britannica is acknowledged to be the best of its class as a reference work and the new edition is the first for thirty years. At present the price is lower than will be true a month hence and so there is all the more reason why any public spirited citizen who feels like aiding the library should come forward with a contribution for this special fund. One member of the library board said yesterday he would give the last ten dollars and it should not be difficult to secure the entire amount.

HAVANA TAKES RETURN GAME FROM ROUTT COLLEGE HIGH

Visitors Play Faster Game Than Home Team—Locals Are in a Crippled Condition.
In their return game with Routt College, played at Liberty Hall Friday night, Havana was victorious by a score of 24 to 18. The visitors got a lead of four points in the first half, that period ending by a score of 15 to 11, and maintained it during the contest.

Havana played an aggressive contest and were faster than the locals, but although the Routt players were closely guarded, they were able to make a basket every time they got away. In Dixon, Ashbell and Spink, Havana has three fast players and the whole aggregation is well balanced.

The Purple players were handicapped in the loss of Walsh, a regular forward and foul basket thrower. He is on the sick list and the result of his absence was easily apparent by a glance at the score, several chances on fouls being missed. Maloney is crippled, Cain and Wolfe are new player and Groves has not sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to play a full game.

Routt's points were made as follows: Groves, c. 2 field goals; Clancy, right forward 3 field goals; Froelich, left forward, 2 field and 4 foul goals. The other players were Wolfe, c.; Becker, l. g.; Maloney, r. g.; and Cain, l. g.

The officials were: Referee, Blair; umpire, Flood; timekeeper, Davison; scorer, Donovan.

ILLINOIS COLLEGE STUDENTS WON IN DEBATE WITH BRADLEY

Decision of Judges Was Unanimous For the Home Debaters—Question of Minimum Wage Scale Was Considered.

An interested audience gathered last evening in the Jones Memorial building, Illinois College to listen to the Freshmen-Sophomore debate between Illinois College and Bradley Polytechnic of Peoria.

The question was, "Resolved: That the several states should adopt a minimum wage schedule for unskilled laborers, (constitutionality conceded)."

The affirmative was upheld by Illinois College and the Jacksonville debaters won a unanimous decision from the judges. Illinois was represented by Thomas Mangner, Edward Kormeyer and Clay Apple.

The negative was argued by Hugh MacDonald, Clifton S. Turner and E. Linn Covey. In rebuttal the order was Thomas Mangner, Edward Kormeyer and Clay Apple. Negative, Clifton S. Turner, E. Linn Covey and Hugh MacDonald.

Prof. J. G. Ames presided and the invocation was pronounced by Rev. H. D. French. The judges were, Prof. M. H. Robinson, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Principal F. D. Thompson, Springfield, Ill.; R. C. Moore, County Superintendent, Caranville, Ill. The debate was quite spirited and some good arguments were offered by both sides.

The affirmative maintained that it would be a protection to the unskilled laborer and save him from the greed of unscrupulous employers, who would take advantage of his condition to force him to work at an unreasonably low wage. The foreign immigrant would not then have an advantage over the native citizen if the former were unable to unbid the other.

The negative argued that we have too many laborers now and this would stimulate immigration till our land would be swamped. Values and conditions cannot be created by law. Tens of thousands would be unjustly handicapped for there are those unable to do a full day's work, who could earn a little, but would not be employed because the law could compel full pay. It would cripple hosts of men who would willingly pay all a laborer was worth, but could not pay the legal limit. It is unamerican and contrary to the genius of our institutions. It would work far more hardship than good. Legislation cannot make employers able to pay large wages any more than it can say what shall be a minimum drop. The decision was unanimously for the affirmative.

Knoles is in fine shape for all kinds of spring and summer wear.

ADMITTS BEING PAID BY OPERATORS WHILE WORKING FOR STRIKERS

DENVER, Colo., March 6.—Although denying he was a spy in the ranks of the union, Arthur Langowski, 21 years old, testified before the congressional strike investigating committee today, he had received pay from the mine operators while exploding dynamite for the strikers.

The witness said he heard all the alleged plots of the strikers and revealed them to Montgomery Messing, town marshal of Sopris. He said he was paid for his information and was also receiving $3 a week strike benefits from the union.

Barleycorn

BY WALT MASON

The man who trains with Barleycorn is loaded down with sorrow; today he's seedy and forlorn, he'll be the same tomorrow. There is no sympathy for him, however great his troubles; his nose is red, his eyes are dim, from drinking stuff that bubbles. He may of his misfortunes sob, but little boots or shoes it; he is the last to get a job, he is the first to lose it. The sober boys save up the stamps, their money in a jar keep, while Boozer, with his bloodshot lamps, is cringing to the barkeep. His head is full of racking aches, his thirst demands an ocean, and when he sleeps he dreams of snakes that reach from here to Goshen. He as no use for wholesome grub, the kind that warms and tickles; he'd rather stand around a tub and reach for slaw and pickles. He loafs with other red-nosed boys and thinks a dragon bliss is, and all the same a wholesome joy the poor old boozers miss. An armchair in the inglenook, the fireside's satisfaction a quiet evening with a book, for him have no attraction. A place among the guzzling crowd to him is bliss and bounty; and finally a pauper's shroud, and planting by the county.

He as no use for wholesome grub, the kind that warms and tickles; he'd rather stand around a tub and reach for slaw and pickles. He loafs with other red-nosed boys and thinks a dragon bliss is, and all the same a wholesome joy the poor old boozers miss. An armchair in the inglenook, the fireside's satisfaction a quiet evening with a book, for him have no attraction. A place among the guzzling crowd to him is bliss and bounty; and finally a pauper's shroud, and planting by the county.

OPPONENT OF SOCIALISM WILL SPEAK AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE

David Goldstein Will Appear Sunday Afternoon Under Auspices of Jacksonville Knights of Columbus—Admission Free.

The Knights of Columbus, pursuant to the action of its supreme council, has instituted an active lecture campaign in defense of the principles of the order, which is founded upon the doctrines of the Catholic church. The services of David Goldstein of Boston, a member of the order, who is recognized as an eminent sociologist and lecturer, have been secured for a transcontinental tour which began at St. Albans, Vermont.

Mr. Goldstein is considered to be socialism's most formidable opponent. He is often spoken of as a walking encyclopedia of knowledge related to the entire ground of his subject.

Mr. Goldstein will lecture in Grand opera house, Jacksonville, Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of Jacksonville council of the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Goldstein is joint author with Mrs. Martha Moore Avery of a work entitled, "Socialism: The Nation of Fatherless Children." This book is most highly recommended by ex-President Roosevelt, Samuel Gompers and other leading men in the public life of our country.

Commended by Press.

Speaking of his work in Chicago, "The New World" says: "We do not think that there was a man or woman present at the magnificent address delivered last Sunday evening at St. Alphonsus' hall on Socialism that did not realize that Mr. Goldstein has indeed made this subject his own."

"Truth is we have too many people attempting to discuss this subject of Socialism without fitting knowledge or grasp of the subject. It is a question that reaches so deeply into our moral life and touches so many sides of the social fabric that no person should attempt to discuss it publicly unless he has given thought to it—given such measure of study to it as will make clear and certain his position, make clear, convincing and irrefragable his conclusions."

"The question of Socialism and its gospel as pronounced and propagated by its disciples in this country is full of danger to our Christian civilization, and the lecturer who would hope to carry conviction while discussing this subject must above all treat it as a moral as well as an economic question."

Formerly a Socialist
Mr. Goldstein was formerly a member of the Socialist movement. He was its first candidate for mayor of the city of Boston. He resigned from the Socialist movement eleven years ago. This was nine months after a futile attempt to induce the Socialist party to debar from its platform those persons who advocate violence, irreligion and free love.

It is the eminent fitness of Mr. Goldstein for the work he is doing that caused the board of directors of the Knights of Columbus to select him for this course of lectures. The Jacksonville council of the K. of C. and its friends look forward with sincere interest to the lecture by Mr. Goldstein, which will no doubt be of intellectual value to the entire community.

Mr. Goldstein is a ready debater. After hearing his reply to the Rev. Mr. Drake, a correspondent to the press of Lewiston, Maine, wittily writes:

"After hearing Mr. Goldstein's clever lecture and rebuttal last evening, I am moved to say that while the Democrats are represented by a donkey, the Progressives by a bull moose, and the stand-patters by the elephant, the Socialists are apparently represented by a Drake of whom Mr. Goldstein made a dead duck."

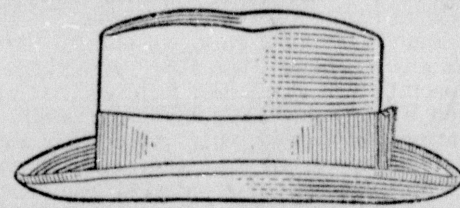

Heard by Large Audiences.

Mr. Goldstein is usually greeted with packed houses. His recent debate with a Socialist representative in Springfield, Mass., was attended by 4,500 persons, while thousands were turned away. "The Springfield Home-Steak" says (Monday, Dec. 29, 1913):

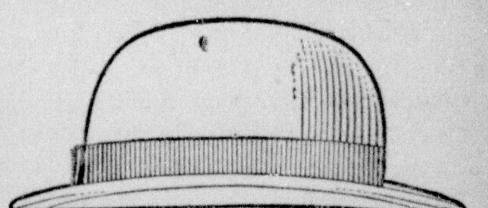

"The representatives of these two opposing forces faced each other on the platform for nearly four hours in one of the most remarkable series of the public utterances that this city has beheld for many years, in which the speakers and their beliefs were held up to derision and public ridicule."

"No decision was given in the debate, although to many it appeared as if Mr. Goldstein had the better of it. This seemed to be the general opinion as expressed by the audience as it was leaving the hall. One thing is certain, and that is, that the great audience, the huge number turned away for lack of room, and the attitude of the audience as well as the speakers, was one of the most remarkable demonstrations the city has

REV. H. S. ALKIRE WRITES TO JACKSONVILLE FRIENDS

Bloomington, Ill., Mar. 6, 1914.
Editor Journal:

Dear Sir:—About ever so often, I find it convenient to send you a note, using the Journal as a medium for answering many inquiries from old Morgan county friends. And this reminds me of the lady at the railway station, who kept asking the stuttering agent what time her train left. With her was a five-year-old. Finally the exasperated agent stutteringly yelled, "D-d-d-did't you b-b-believe me w-w-when I t-t-told you?" She replied, "Yes, but my little boy here never heard any one stutter, and he wants me to get you to talk so he can hear you!" So, Mr. Journal, you'll think I am imposing on good nature to economize my time, and postage bill. But the Journal keeps me in touch with the old town, and it will be a long while before I lose interest in you. I have nothing but the kindest feeling for the town and am only sorry that I could not have done more for its upbuilding.

Bloomington treats us finely. We have a delightful people, the most responsive we ever served. Our special meetings ran sixteen days, but were surely great. The work of salvation goes right on. Last Sunday two more were converted and three joined, one baptised. To date, since January 25th, there have been 138 accessions, 34 baptisms. About 20 to join yet, and 12 or 15 to baptize. Brother Beckman rendered us yeoman service, and won a multitude of friends during his stay in Bloomington. We are very sorry for him in his misfortune. Our church membership is now about 600 and the house is full every Sunday. Since the middle of January our mid-week attendance has been above 100 each time. At the Quarterly Conference last week, our Ladies Aid reported $456.00 raised since December 2, 1913. I am told that we have the best Aid in the Bloomington district.

I am into another building enterprise. The conference decided to erect a parsonage upon our splendid lots, and a board was created to go forward as soon as the weather opens. So I will have something to keep me out of mischief this spring. I see you have a note of Mr. Shaw's coming marriage. He is one of my best men and a true friend of all the pastors. I have found him safe in all church projects and we will miss him during his European trip.

Just now we are warming up to the wet and dry campaign. It is laughable to hear some of the reports that the wets circulate concerning Jacksonville. One fellow says that weeds grow up in the main streets, and that whole blocks are empty since the saloons left you. I guess I'm near-sighted or entirely blind that I failed to see all that. We feel that Bloomington will go dry and that she will not even feel a shock when the liquor business slips away. Many business and professional men will be glad to get down on the ground floor and occupy the fine sites which the saloons have monopolized or years. About 300 bar keepers and saloon owners will be minus fat incomes but they will go on to Peoria or Chicago. Or as one woman put it, "With the saloons out my husband will go back to work, and some saloon keeper can have my job of taking in washing."

Tell the office bunch "Hello." Be constantly generous to old Brooklyn. Boost your coming chautauqua, for its one of the best advertisements Jacksonville ever had. Hope to be able to attend some myself. Mr. Shaw asks me to visit several on his chautauqua circuit this summer and I may.

With kindest regards to you.

Very sincerely,

H. S. Alkire.
P. S.—Wonder if "Dorris" Tomlinson, Will Brady, "Funeral Man" Gilliam, and all that bunch have lost their "game" appetites? No duck-eats this spring. I'm going over to Washington and pull Uncle Sam's gotee for working such a dirty trick on us. Come and go along, I may need more help.

DR. POST GAVE SOME REASONS WHY MEN DO NOT ATTEND CHURCH

Minister Made Plain That Most of the Exercises Are Frail and Faulty—J. R. Watt Pointed to Benefits Which Might Come From Y. M. C. A. Remodeling.

The meeting of the men's brotherhood of the Congregational church last evening was much enjoyed by all present. The supper was superb, individual chicken pies, in addition to other good things made a menu that was fine. Messrs. Eb Spink and Marcus Robinson were the special committee and were ably assisted by other members of the organization. After all had eaten President Penfield called the meeting to order and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Secretary F. T. Irving and then James Watt, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was introduced and told of the work of the institution, its great importance and the fact that it is run the cheapest of any in place anything like the size of this. He is determined not to run in debt any more and it took hard work to get along.

Through dissolution of the Women's Christian association the Y. M. C. A. had come into possession of a more second story room and it was extremely important to remodel the second story into lodging rooms as in that case a net income of $900 annually might be reasonably anticipated. It was the hope of the association that each of several churches would assume $125 of the $1,500 necessary for the undertaking. The Central Christian church had paid $250 and some others had agreed and some had not. He felt it would be a grand thing for the boys if Mr. Brewer could be brought back and the gentleman would come for a very moderate salary. Steps were taken by the meeting looking toward securing the sum asked for.

Dr. Post then followed with a masterly address on the "Why men take so little interest in the church." Only a few of his excellent points can be given. He said in brief: "I begin with a syllogism. God is; Man has a soul; Therefore the church is a necessity."

"I ask no favoritism for the faith. I am sensitive to the feeling that the church and the preacher claim things for the church not shown other things. I take it or granted that God is the same as I take for granted that I exist. The church is the meeting place of God with man. There can be no other to take its place. When Jacob lay with his head pillowed on a stone and saw the ladder extending to heaven he called that he house of God. The Savior taught that God is a spirit and they that worship Him must do so in spirit and in truth."

As Cowper has beautifully said: "Jesus, where'er they people meet There he behold the mercy seat." There is no need of going to church unless the soul is conscious of meeting God. What is the church for? Three things mainly: First. It is a place for all to worship; to take some part in the service. Second. It is for fellowship; to bring together in brotherly communion all of a common faith. Third. It is a place for service; to teach men how to serve God, help each other.

People go to church more than they did in times past, strange as that may seem. Why do not more attend? Here are some of the excuses: "The church has no place for a laboring man."

This is not true. Wherever any man or set of men have tried to rule because they were wealthy they have failed. Even Rockefeller, Russell Sage and Jay Gould tried it fruitlessly.

work all week and want to rest on Sunday. A great fallacy. The most complete rest a person can take; that is, the most valuable way in which he can spend the holy hours is going to church. Men have tried working seven days a week and have lost their health and lives; it doesn't pay. Living around lazily on Sunday is not a rest. A man works his horses a little on Sunday going to church and they are better off it.

"There are too many hypocrites in the church." That excuses no one. If true, go in and improve the conditions. The church is not the place for perfect but for sinners honestly trying to do better.

"I can worship better at home reading the choicest books", but does the man who stays away do this? Is not the daily Sunday paper his food? The fact is we read too much or too many different things and fail to concentrate enough. The pupils of the public schools have far too many things to detract from their studies. Pupils and teachers should abstain from clubs, evening gatherings and do the one thing well if they would obtain best results.

F. H. Bode followed with some excellent remarks on the same subject and the evening was most pleasantly and profitably spent.

SCIENTIFIC DAIRYING BRINGS MOST DESIRABLE RESULTS

Quality of the Cow is the Basis of Success—Methods of Feeding and Caring for the Animals Come Next—Adherence to Policy of Management Adopted is Essential.

(By Dr. H. A. Harding, head of the Dairy Department, University of Illinois—An abstract.)

Science is ordinarily defined as well arranged sense. Therefore scientific dairying should be well arranged sensible dairying. While this statement implies that all forms of the dairy business shall be well arranged, this business is like every other in that there are some points at which a careful management is much more important than at others. In dairying, the very foundation of the business is the cow herself. From the business standpoint, the value of the cow is very closely associated with the amount and richness of the milk which she produces. In the making of butter, it is the butterfat rather than the amount of milk that is important. In all other branches of dairying, the maximum amount of stress is laid upon the amount of milk which the individual cow produces. While exact information is lacking as to the average production of milk in this state, it is probable that this average production is not far from four thousand pounds per year. When we remember that there are very many cows producing twice this amount of milk, and not a few cows producing three times this amount of milk, it seems plain that the character of the cow employed in dairying might be improved with great profit to the business. This improvement can be brought about by selecting wisely the best producing cows and keeping their most promising calves. This process carried out for a number of years has resulted in many instances in the production of a higher producing herd. An essentially similar process carried out for many generations has resulted in the production of the various well known herds, each having its own peculiarities and advantages in connection with one or more of the various phases of dairying. Naturally, when any individual is attempting to increase the productivity of his herd, he can take advantage of the progress which has already been made in connection with one of these definite breeds in so far as his financial ability and the demands of the market dictates.

Why Progress Is Slow.

If there is, therefore, such a well known and fully tested method of increasing the productivity of a herd it is a natural question as to why greater progress in this direction has not already been attained by the dairyman. This lack of progress is to be explained on the basis of a variety of reasons. One of these is the fact that definite progress in this direction depends upon the continuance of a given policy for some years. The shifting character of our renter population makes the carrying out of a definite policy in this direction difficult in many cases. Another efficient hindrance to progress is the fact that a large proportion of our dairies consists of a small number of cows. In such cases, the owner has not sufficient financial interest to justify a careful study of this question of breeding. This small size of dairies likewise makes the purchase of a pure bred bull an expensive undertaking in proportion to the size of the returns from the dairy. Without such a pure bred sire, the improvement of the dairy is practically hopeless. In these small dairies it is also very expensive to undertake the purchase of a full bred female, which expenditure is necessary if the full benefit of the previous breeding is to be attained. While a number of other factors contribute to this unfortunate situation, these two factors, the shifting character of the dairyman and the smallness of the dairy, are the main factors which have blocked progress in the dairy herds. The renter class will undoubtedly remain permanently with us. Even under the most favorable conditions, there will always be a certain number of young men who are not in the process of acquiring sufficient capital to begin dairying for themselves. It is hoped that one of the fruits of our present study of rural economics will be the development of a system of contract which shall be so fair to both owner and renter as to stimulate long residence of a given renter upon a single farm. Progress in this direction will very much diminish the evils of the present renter system.

Milking Presents Difficulties.

The small size of our dairies is, in part at least, due to the difficulties surrounding the milking problem. With the present uncertainties in the supply of labor, the dairyman feels compelled to keep the number of cows in his herd down to the point where he can milk them himself when other help fails. The fairly rapid development of the milking machine bids fair to solve this part of the labor problem in a fairly satisfactory manner. The milking machine not only makes possible, but makes necessary a larger dairy since the overhead charges in connection with the installation of the machine are such that it cannot be economically operated in dairies smaller than fifteen cows, and will be found more economical in dairies of double that number.

LANDSCAPE WORK FOR FARM YARD HOMES

your community? In winter and in summer the magnificent old elm stands to shelter you and your home from the uncertainties of the elements.

The sugar maple is one of the best native trees for any and all purposes. Clean, strong, deep rooted, long lived, and beautiful, it is fit for street, lawn, park, cemetery, school ground or railroad station. Other fine trees for lawns are linden, tulip, hackberry, sweet gum and Kentucky coffee trees. Avoid the poor box elder, the cotton wood and the honey locust, which litters the yard with its fruits.

The walnut and the hickory are poor for the street and the lawn because of the dropping of fruit and bark, but in the wood lot they are of considerable value. To this group we may also add the white oak. It is used for fire wood, fence posts, shingles and many other purposes.

The Flowering Varieties.

Beyond this class of trees, used largely for shade, our native woods are filled with beautiful flowering specimens such as the flowering dog wood, which with its white flowers appearing before the leaves in the spring, would along with its neighbor, the redbud, contribute wonderfully to the decoration of the lawn and border. And let me tell you that I place not one whit less stress on the value of the old apple tree for the farm yard. Cared for it becomes a picturesque and beautiful specimen that is hard to find a duplicate or substitute.

We have spoken of the front lawn rather extensively, but perhaps we would emphasize more particularly the back yard.

Does the good wife stand in the kitchen to look out upon dreary posters and patent medicine signs painted on the barn while you are in the field enjoying the songs of the larks and the flash of the red wing? I advise you all to read Hamlin Garland's book called the "Main Travelled Roads" if you want to realize what life on the farm may or may not mean to the other fellow. Why not have a large open lawn in the rear as well as in front, bordered with shrubbery? Have the barns screened with a wind break that in summer shuts out unsightly views, cuts off bad orders, and instead offers a garden.

BIDS ARE ASKED.

The board of education of the city of Jacksonville desires sealed bids for supplying the public schools with two lathes, two saws, one grind stone, for use in the manual training department; also for electrical equipment, both alternating and direct current. SEEK PRISON REFORMS.

New York, March 6.—Superintendents and wardens of prisons in various parts of the United States and Canada addressed a conference here today in the interest of prison reform. YOUR MODERN BATH ROOM

When you consider your own personal comfort and convenience and that of every other member of your household, just which particular room of your home means the most to you and your family? The bathroom, of course.

Isn't that sufficient reason for you to have it just right—just the way you want it?

If you do not take a personal interest in planning the bathroom for your new home, and select just the fixtures you want for it, isn't there a possibility that when completed, it might be a disappointment? You can obviate any such possibility by making selection from our "Standard" Catalogue with its hundreds of designs for all purposes, requirements and tastes.

We can advise you upon all sanitary matters and aid you in planning wisely.

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES OPENED TO WOMEN

by our state organization, but local organizations in our midst. I wish it were possible to secure an organization for every town and county community. Through organization interest will be awakened and knowledge acquired that can or will not be attempted by the individual.

If every county needs an agricultural expert to guide and assist the farmers to the best methods and knowledge of agriculture, does not every county need a household science expert to direct a campaign of education among its home makers, that the lives of children may be spared, that men and women may live out their allotted period of time and then to specifically aid in systematizing, beautifying and making farm life a desirable one for any woman to live? Some day we may attain at least to the privilege of a state organizer or worker, but in the mean time we must as individuals use all our latent powers in forwarding the work.

MOTHER! IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If cross, feverish, constipated, bilious stomach sour, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is often the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!—Adv.

WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

WEAKNESS DEVELOPS IN STOCKS; RAILROADS ARE CHIEF SUFFERERS

Pronounced Heaviness Develops in Low Priced Railroad Shares—Industrials Hold Up Fairly Well.

(By Associated Press.)
New York, March 6.—Decided weakness developed today in the stock market. Railroad stocks were the chief sufferers. Chesapeake and Ohio which was acutely weak yesterday following announcement of the terms of $33,000,000 note issue again lost ground rapidly. Pronounced heaviness developed in other shares, particularly low priced railroad shares. Industrials held up fairly well. In the last half hour selling was renewed. Among the standard shares there were losses of 1 to 2½ points.

The outburst of selling toward the close began with a slump in St. Paul following announcement from Washington that an examiner of the inter-state commerce commission had charged that St. Paul's accounts had been improperly manipulated. That stock dropped more than four points.

Steel was the bulwark of the market holding up well.

Agricultural News Valuable To Farmers

SCREENS FOR FARM HOME ESSENTIAL

VARIOUS TYPES OF CONSTRUCTION AND MATERIALS COMPARED.

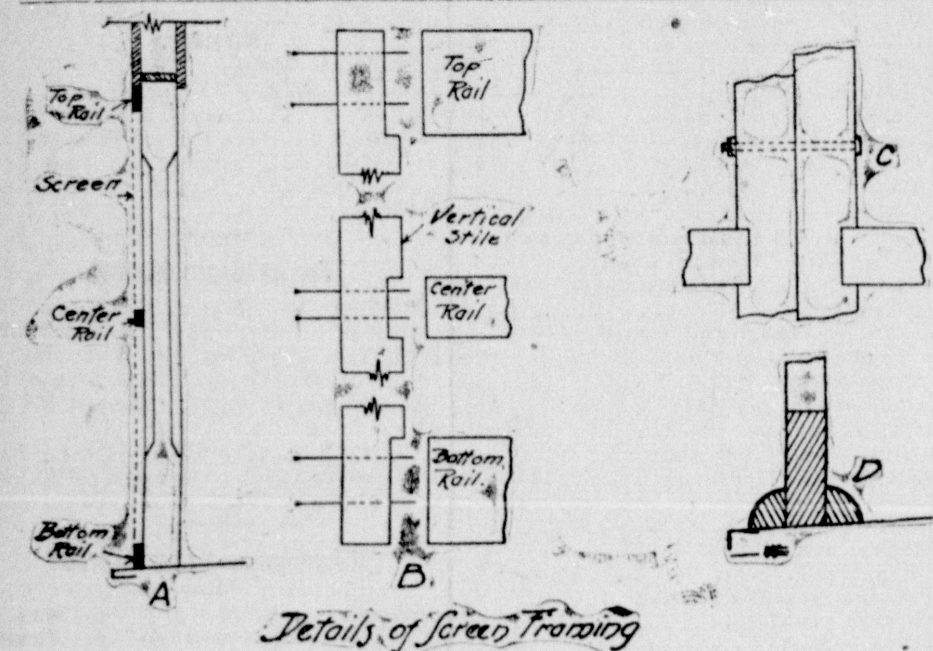

Bronze Wire Costs Most But Will Last Longest Period—Screened Porch Is Equivalent to an Extra Room for the Home—Screens Figured as Extras and Too Often are Made of Cheap Materials.

(By K. J. T. Ekblaw, Associate, in Farm Buildings, University of Illinois.)

Screens are essential in every house. Their purpose is to prevent the entrance of bugs and insects into the house, the offender against which the protective measure is most particularly directed being the common house fly. Screen not only obviates the physical annoyances resulting from the presence of this little but persistent pest, but it acts also as an exceptionally efficient sanitary agent, in preventing the spread of disease through the agency of the same pest.

Probably most farm houses have their windows equipped with screens. Often, however, the screens are placed only on the windows of the rooms that are occupied the most, such as the kitchen, dining room, and living room, recourse being had to fly swatters, poison and various other contrivances to eliminate the individuals that enter through other wide open places. Screening is not really efficient unless every door and every window is supplied with a well fitting screen.

Window screens are of numerous types more or less durable and efficient. Since they are usually considered as extras at the time of house construction, the owner, finding his financial resources to be surprisingly depleted when his house is nearing completion, is tempted to economize in the matter of screens, and as a result obtains screens that are weak and wobbly and that soon become almost unusable. For windows of ordinary size, the usual three-fourth inch material that is used is hardly strong enough, unless thoroughly braced, and bracing generally disfigures the frame. One and one-eighth stock, dressed on both sides, is better.

Bronze Wire Best.

Several kinds of screen are obtainable, namely, black wire, bright wire, galvanized wire and bronze wire, named in order of their desirability and also their expense. The first two kinds are about the same in value and will last for several years if kept well painted. The galvanized wire looks very neat and is quite durable. By far the handsomest and best screen, though considerably higher in cost than any of the others, is the bronze wire screen, which requires no painting to increase its durability.

Of late years a screened porch has become deservedly popular. It is much easier to keep the flies from an exterior door by screening the whole porch surrounding the door than by screening the door itself. If the porch is of any size at all, the effect of the screening is to provide an extra room which is usually cool and comfortable, and which in very hot weather may be used as a dining room that is not only a comfort, but a gratification.

Enclosed Porches Bring Comfort. The labor involved in enclosing a porch with screen is considerable in comparison with the comfort obtained. The difficulty of the labor is measured somewhat by the construction details of the porch itself, it being somewhat easier to enclose a porch having simple square posts than one having circular ones. If the post is square, the panels can be fitted close up against the post, as shown at A in the figure. Should the porch possess round pillars, the screen panels can be located inside the pillars.

Most lumber yards carry regular screen door stock of 1 1/2 x 3 1/2 in. cypress; for porch panels, however, the vertical stiles should be not over 1 3/4 inches in width, which is ample. The center rail should be the same width, but the top and bottom rails may well be of the 2-inch stock. A simple method of construction is shown at B; if the recesses are cut carefully, and the rails closely fitted, a couple of ten penny casing or finishing nails at each point will unite all the parts into a frame light but surprisingly strong. The screen should be stretched straight and

WORK AT STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTE IS REVIEWED

Addresses Made at Galesburg Meeting were of Unusual Value—Twenty-seven States Represented at National Corn Show.

The meetings of the state institute were unusually well attended. It took two large halls to hold the audiences that attended the Household Science section and the institute proper.

The program was carried out nearly as published. It is difficult to mention the leading features for each address was a feature itself.

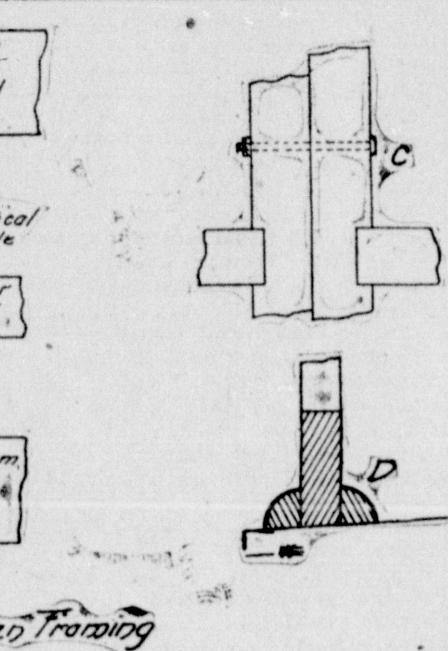

On the first day the addresses by Professor Hopkins and Mr. Eckhardt were heard by more than two hundred people.

The evening addresses by President R. A. Pearson of Iowa, by Governor A. C. Eberhart of Minnesota, by Dean Eugene Davenport of Illinois, were heard with great interest by the large combined audience of the entire institute.

The resolutions passed by the institute demanding that politics be kept out of the state university and that the university president, Dr. Edmund J. James, be left to do his great work unmolested, that a system of farm credits to aid the farmer in getting better rates of interest and larger loans, that Governor Dunne be commended for the quarantine of tubercular cattle, that hog cholera serum be tested, that it favored a county expert system, that the parcel post be extended, were the important subjects taken up.

The National Corn Exposition.

At the recent corn exposition in Dallas, Texas, 27 states and the United States department of agriculture had exhibits. The exhibits from the states in nearly all cases were by the agricultural colleges and experiment stations. The University of Illinois had exhibits in soil fertility, crop production, plant breeding and animal husbandry. Illinois won first prize for best single ear of corn any color. Mr. H. Hopper of Bureau county, Princeton, Illinois, produced the white ear of corn that won this first prize, which received the Kellogg trophy.

First prize for best ten ears was won by Indiana, as was the first prize for best bushel of corn.

University men who attended the exposition were Professors Hegnauer, Rusk and Jamison. Dean Davenport gave an address during the first week. W. B. Mill of McNabb, president of the Illinois Corn Growers' association, also attended.

KERNELS FROM KORN BELT

(By Sol E. Quizer.)

No wonder the farmer is beginning to sell for himself—he's been sold himself so often.

Make yourself over rather than waste time making resolutions. Of what good are laws if the same old lawbreaker is to keep them.

Any old grocery store loafer can tell what's wrong with the country, but it takes an expert to tell what's wrong with the farm.

smooth on the exterior side, and fastened with small tacks at intervals no more than 3 inches. The rows of tacks being subsequently covered with screen moid.

Proper Size For Panels. Porch pillars are usually spaced uniformly and it is well to regulate the width of the screen panels so that all panels, as far as possible, may be the same in width. No panel should be more than 3 feet wide. Doors should be framed with 2x4 for the suspension of the door.

Each individual panel should be fitted in place carefully, and numbered so its location will always be known. Ordinarily, their own stiffness will keep them from bending, but should this not be sufficient, a small 3/4-inch bolt will help, as shown at C. A simple way to hold them at the bottom is shown at D, a quarter round mold being nailed to the porch only at either side of the panel.

CONCRETE CULVERTS WILL LAST LONG TIME

MAY PROVE COSTLY IF NOT PROPERLY CONSTRUCTED.

Quality of Ingredients Used Has Much to Do With Life of Concrete Re-Inforced Work Has Proven Most Satisfactory—Various Types of Culverts Now Used on Country Roads.

(N. B. Garver, Associate in Civil Engineering, University of Illinois.)

Concrete culverts, if properly built, are very durable and economical, but if not properly built may prove costly. They may be built of either rectangular or circular cross section.

The cement must be fresh and free from lumps, and must not be stored where it will be exposed to the weather. The sand must be clean, coarse and free from lumps of clay, loam or keel, and must be well graded in size so the smaller grains will fill the spaces between the larger one. The gravel should be clean and well graded. It should not contain any lumps of clay or loam. If pit run gravel is used, the part that passes through a one-fourth inch screen should be classed as sand and that remaining on the screen as gravel. No gravel should be used with a greater diameter than two and one-half inches for plain concrete and one inch for reinforced concrete.

A very good proportion to use for plain concrete is 1 part of cement, 2 1/2 parts of sand and 5 parts of gravel or stone. For reinforced concrete use 1 part of cement, 2 parts of sand and 4 parts of gravel or stone.

The mixing must be well done so that each grain of sand and gravel has a complete covering of cement. This is most easily determined by the uniformity of color of the mixture. After placing, the concrete must have ample time to set before it is permitted to be used.

The forms for the inside of the barrel of the culvert must be well built and smooth in order that there will be no rough places to catch debris and interfere with the flow of water. All surfaces which will be exposed to view, should have the forms built of dressed lumber in order to give the concrete a neat appearance when finished. There are many commercial culvert forms on the market which have their advantages, and where any considerable number of culverts are to be built, should prove economical, if used with care. The gradient must be sufficient to carry the water through and away from the end of the culvert, and should be sufficient to make the culvert self-cleaning.

Concrete Box Culverts.

The concrete box culvert is a very economical and durable type. It derives its name from the fact that the section is of a square or rectangular form. This is the simplest form of the slab bridge. It may have a floor which is of concrete; it may be paved with stone; or it may have an earth floor with concrete walls built across the waterway to prevent washing or undermining of the side walls. The wing walls and side walls may be of plain concrete, but the top slabs and the parapets should be reinforced. Where the foundation materials are soft or liable to be washed out easily by currents of water, or where it is necessary to distribute the load over the foundation, the floor may be built of reinforced concrete.

This type of construction is practicable in most locations for spans up to and including eight feet.

Reinforced Concrete Slab Culverts. The length of slab culvert or bridge span that may be built with economy depends to some extent upon the loads which it may be required to carry. The Illinois highway commission has supervised the construction of a great many spans more than 20 feet in length, and have made standard plans for spans as great as 32 feet. The slab becomes very thick and heavy, however, for the longer spans and would not be economical except where materials are easily obtained.

The side walls may be of concrete, either plain or reinforced, or the slab may be placed on old stone abutments if they are still in good condition.

Reinforced Concrete T-Beam Culverts.

Where the span is too great or the load is too heavy for the flat slab floor, the T-beam type of construction may be used. This type consists of the floor slab similar to that used on the slab culvert, with the addition of reinforced concrete beams running parallel to the roadway, to transfer the load to the abutments or side walls. This type of construction is permanent and is very satisfactory. In cases where a small head room is to be had for the waterway, it might not be advisable to use it, as it will reduce the waterway to an appreciable extent. The cost of forms for this type is considerably more than for the flat slab.

Concrete Steel I-Beam Culverts.

This type of culvert may be used in place of the one just mentioned. The slab carries the load over a span equal to the distance between the I-beams, and the I-beams carry the loads to the side walls.

In this type, the I-beams may or may not be encased in the concrete. If they are not encased, the life of

PERPLEXING PROBLEMS CONFRONT THE AVERAGE CATTLE FEEDERS

Advance in Food Values and in Equipment Costs Has Brought Changes—Silage Can Do Much in Saving Money for the Feeder—Used for Centuries in Old Countries.

(By W. H. Smith, Department of Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois—Abstract of an address to the members of the Illinois State Farmers' Institute.)

Few seasons have presented more perplexing problems to the cattle feeder than the present. It is my purpose in the short time allotted to me to analyze and discuss some of these problems as an aid to their solution.

To better understand the present conditions let us briefly follow the course and development of the cattle feeding industry. Originating in Virginia more than a century ago, it has traveled westward hand in hand with the development of the great corn belt of this country. Not many years ago this section was covered with large herds of beef cattle. Cattle were bred here in Illinois and used to consume the coarse roughages then available. After this growing out process they were placed on feed and finished for market at three and four and five year olds. The cheap, all purpose feeds made this system possible, and cattle were the sole salvation of the farmer for a system of marketing his crops. Little thought was put on the system except to get rid of the coarse feeds, which otherwise would have been wasted.

Finally transportation facilities increased, and a large ready market for all such crops placed a value on them which developed more conservatism in their use. Likewise a ready market for corn stimulated its growth in every field and the once great breeding industry pushed outward to the cheap range land of the west. This corn belt section was then left as the fattening or finishing stage for cattle bred elsewhere.

Increased Cost. But even with plenty of corn where blue grass formerly flourished other important factors have arisen which demand greater skill in all feeding operations. Among those are greater expense in securing feeders, increased value of equipment, and higher prices on all feeds and labor.

What conditions has the present season brought before the cattle feeders of this country? A half a crop of corn, a big shortage of clover, a big shortage of alfalfa, and feeders selling close to fat cattle prices. Even the serious drought over most of the cattle producing areas which forced thousands of thin cattle on the early fall markets did not have the cheapening effect looked for by the "old timers" in the cattle business.

In times past such a liquidation would have filled most of the feed lots with cheap cattle, but the general shortage and the active competition of the packers caused these steers to sell at record breaking prices, which almost paralyzed the more comparatively conservative corn belt feeder. He let them alone. Besides, the result of a short crop has forced 60c to 70c corn upon us, while the fat cattle market stands no higher than last year, when corn was selling between 35c and 40c. But, on the other hand, the shortage of hay has caused the erection of thousands of silos throughout the corn belt, and upon this cattle feeders are basing their hopes. Probably more men are feeding their first silage this year than ever before, and to them a discussion of the methods of handling this feed should prove timely.

Silage Used for Centuries.

The feeding of silage is not a new practice. It has been followed in various countries for centuries. Silage made of beet leaves and other forage crops has long been used in many of the older countries with successful results. But in the corn belt silage has been slow to meet with favor except by the dairymen. Separate him from his silo and he retires from the business.

The cattle feeder, on the other hand, with plenty of roughages available did not realize its benefits. With his huge crops he has followed a system whereby practically one-third of his corn crop was lost. For 35 per cent of its value is in the stalks and leaves, which under ordinary practice is largely wasted.

But with this increasing popularity of silage we still find conflicting opinions as to its use. Some praise it highly, others who are just as conscientious and observant criticize it severely. The differences of opinion, however, are probably due to differences in the methods used in handling and feeding of silage rather than any injurious effects due to the feed itself.

The structure will be determined by the lasting qualities of the exposed steel. If the steel is kept painted the bridge may last indefinitely, but if not, the life of the structure will be comparatively short. One reason why painting is likely to be neglected is because the beams are out of sight from the roadway. Another reason is, that we have learned from our own observations that steel highway bridges are seldom repainted after their construction. If by chance they are repainted the parts that need it most are the most difficult to reach, and therefore, may not be touched. Where the I-beams are carefully embedded in the concrete they are protected so that they will not corrode.

LANDSCAPE WORK FOR FARM YARD HOMES

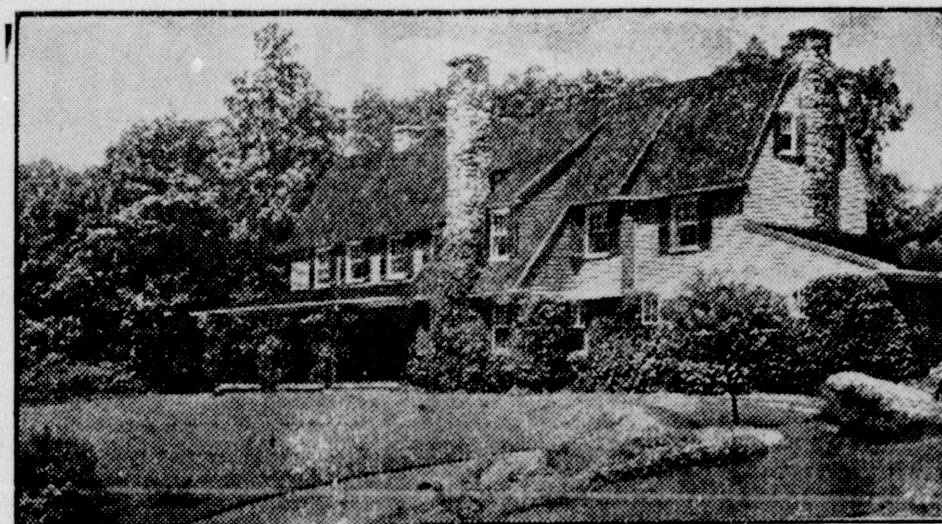

FENCES SHOULD BE BUILT IN AN ORNAMENTAL WAY.

Hedges and Shrubbery Can Sometimes Be Used with Artistic Effect—Border Planting Affords Privacy and Pleases the Eye Too—Natural Beauty of Trees Frequently Overlooked.

(Prof. H. F. Major, University of Missouri, to the people of the Short Course, University of Ill.)

We are particularly interested in the way of bounding the yard, both from the practical and ornamental standpoint. The original and, perhaps most common way in the past has been to use the fence. On many farms and in the countries where the stock laws are law a fence is indispensable. At the same time, if used around the home grounds it should be treated ornamentally, kept in repair and covered with vines or backed with shrubbery. In more recent times the fence has given place to the hedge. In some localities the California privet is hardy and affords an excellent plant for the purpose, but the Amor variety is more hardy and in every way as satisfactory.

Besides the formal or clipped hedge we often let the plants assume their natural shape. Such a plant to be a suitable hedge must be of a regular form, of dense thick et like growth and preferably thorny. The Japanese barberry is one of the best of this kind, affording a brilliant scarlet fall coloration. Frequently along drives for a hedge like border to brighten the roadside and shield the lawn, we plant the peony, whose beauty in flowering season has no equal.

The house that the igoramus did't build. The architect promised to make it as near like a New England colonial farmhouse as he could.

Closely allied to the hedge is the wind break, usually of tall trees planted close together to shut off the cold windy blasts in winter or for the purpose often of screening out a disagreeable view where space is limited. Poplars, cedars, willows, etc., are used for such purposes.

Our next point in planning is to screen the foundation of the house, round out the corners and to tie the house to the ground by means of shrubbery and vines planted close to the base of the building. A house without such planting is a most barren appearing object. It is surprising to note what a difference is made in the attractiveness of a place by a little simple planting.

Vines for the Porch. A shrub or a vine planted in the corner of the porch is highly desirable, while one at the corner gives the appearance of a natural support. Frequently, instead of tying the house down to the ground and making it a part of the lawn, we find an attempt made to terrace the ground about it. The terrace is out of date. Especially in the country should we avoid sticking things up in the air as we have to do in a crowded city. Why will people insist on the terrace?

How much better to be down on the level of the ground and connecting with the lawn as if it were a part of the unroofed house, so that when the day is clear and the winds are gentle we may hang our hammock in the shade of the sheltering sugar maple and feel at home with the world.

Let me show you another view that exemplifies these four principles. Again the open lawn in front of the long, low house—the porch opening out upon it, the border planting gives both a spirit of privacy and delight to the yard and at the same affords a beautiful setting of green as a background to the house, making it seem as if it belonged there forever. I also call your attention to the drive and the walk, practically parallel to each other, kept over at one side of the lawn. They pass close to the service or rear entrance of the house, which, however, has been successfully screened out by a planting of ornamental shrubs.

"Plant a tree, Jock. It'll be growing while you're asleepin'" If I could but impress this one point on the minds of every man, woman and child, I would feel that my talks were a success and had fulfilled its mission.

The Beauty of the Trees.

Let us consider some of these fine silent workmen who contribute so much to the happiness and comfort of mankind. Are you doing as much as they for the general welfare of

IT HAPPENED IN ILLINOIS.

(Are you an Illinois product? If you can tell about your grandfather the winter of the big snow or how your grandmother outwitted the Indians, or how your Methodist preacher uncle won out in a horse trade send it to the Editor of the Corn Belter, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois.)

In Montrie county you still find folks who tell the tale of Jacob Seass, his good wife and her molasses jug. You see it happened that the Missus was taken with a terrible hankering for molasses. She simply couldn't be happy until she had it and neither could Jacob. She was willing to work for her lasses. She carded the wool and spun the cloth and received fifty cents for it.

Jacob, with the jug, set off to Mattoon, 18 miles away. Alas for Jacob Seass! Alas for the jug!

Horse races were in progress. Jacob Seass knew—knew to a certainty which horse would win. He wagered his wife's fifty cents on that horse.

"How pleased she'll be," Jacob told himself, "when I hand her her fifty cents and her full jug."

The wrong horse won. Jacob hoofed it back over those long 18 miles and told the truth.

She did not reproach him. But she did put the empty molasses pitcher on the table at every meal and elaborately asked him to help himself to molasses.

Finally Jacob Seass couldn't stand it. He heard of a man who wanted rails split. And he crept out of the house and split those rails by moonlight until he had earned enough money to fill that pesky jug with molasses. Then all he had to do was travel the 18 miles with it empty—at night, for he was determined to surprise her—and back the 18 miles with it full. Thus Mrs. Seass had her molasses!

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES OPENED TO WOMEN

GRANTING OF SUFFRAGERIGHTS BRINGS NEW AND LARGE RESPONSIBILITIES.

Laws of Municipality and of Nation Have Large Influence on the Home—Can Help to Make Life Better for Children and Those Who Toil—United Effort Only Can Bring Good Results.

(Extract of an address by Mrs. H. M. Dunlap before the Household Science Department of the Illinois State Farmers' Institute.)

None are more conscious of the fact that we are in the midst of a political renaissance than the women of not only our own country alone, but of every other nation. The women of Illinois were very suddenly awakened to the fact last spring when they received almost their political freedom or their citizenship. Nothing has grieved me so much since that time as the feeling of indifference expressed by some of our educated and influential women in regard to the opportunities and power that has been granted them to be of greater and more effective use in this larger housekeeping and housecleaning. But you need not fear when the time comes for her to exercise this right of the ballot for her woman's heart, which is the mother heart, will respond to the best that is within her, as it has always done in the past.

Women are going to see that the smallest government unit, the township, deals with roads, schools and temperance do we not need the help of every home maker woman that these conditions may be improved?

The county matters—are not all women interested in the purity and efficiency of our courts—the proper management of our jails, insane hospitals and the care of the poor within our country? Hence is not that a part of this larger housekeeping that she must be interested in?

Then in the state; have not all our charitable institutions needed the woman's hand and heart to help in their management, that justice may be tempered with mercy and the loving heart of woman cast a mantle of charity over all within their walls?

Better Laws Help the Home.

So as to our national when it comes to laws governing our public utilities, such as telephone, telegraph, electric light, gas, water supply and trolley, and of laws controlling railroad rates, the tariff and trusts. Must we not see that we are helping in bettering all home conditions when we can help by our ballot in forming the laws under which they must act. All good or bad laws effect men and women with equal power, so they should be equal in responsibility in the making of these laws. This political revival will cooperate with this home building revival and help in all this home building work that must be done.

This larger housekeeping is going to do much for the welfare of our people. It is going to unite men and women in one great common purpose—that of replacing evil with good in every activity of human life.

Men and women will then cooperate more closely in the individual home for the wrongs perpetrated by both in this home building work will be brought to view from a closer and more perfect relation in life.

Will Emphasize the Important.

Women will more closely draw the line between the essentials and the non-essentials of life. They will help to simplify, beautify and idealize all the work of the home that they may have time to add in this larger home building work. They will want the time and opportunity to help make conditions better for the life of every child.

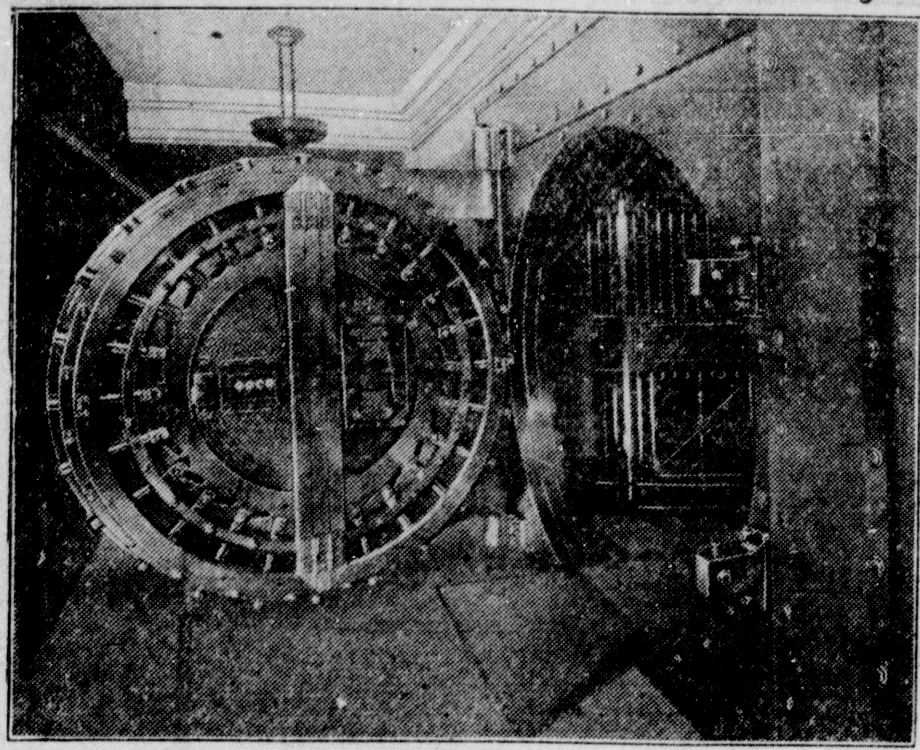

We are women gathered here for a great and holy purpose, that of making our own lives better and those that come under our care by gaining an inspiration and help in this home building work. Through this organization I am sure much good has been accomplished, but greater work is still for it to do. This association must help educate the women in all the arts and craft of life. The spiritual and physical life of man is so intertwined that the laws governing both must be understood and obeyed if a life of health and efficiency is to be obtained. There is no side road of ease and self indulgence to be taken, but a straight and intelligent one and one attuned to the divinity that is within. Hence many of us form new and better habits of eating, dressing, breathing, exercising and thinking. The present day made of eating and defining, ex-body and the dressing of our of our women should mind the angelic weep for man's and woman's short sightedness. Let us take a strong stand against all freak dressing and see if it will not be possible for us to attain a hygienic, beautiful and sensible mode of clothing our bodies. We talk much about it, but is there not some way that our talk can be turned into action that will count?

Must Become Missionaries.

The good to be accomplished seems almost unobtainable and it can never be forwarded and advanced only by a united and concerted action on the part of those interested in this home building work. We must become missionaries in the cause and be willing to give out time and knowledge in perfecting not only

It's the Film That Makes the Picture

While none of us expect our cameras to reproduce pictures in all their original colors, still we find ourselves saying, "It ought to look more natural. I wonder what's the trouble." Particularly is this so when we attempt to record outdoor pictures. Nature hides her paint box in spite of us.

But with Ansco Film and Cyko Paper we can accurately make different tones of black and white or sepia the values of the original colors. And unless the film you use does record these color values accurately, the results will be disappointing, no matter what paper you print your negatives on.

BIG MINSTRELS COMING.

Lew Dockstrader, the veteran minstrel man, who appears with the Primrose and Dockstrader minstrel here March 13th, has been so long associated in the minds of theatre-goers with burnt cork entertainment that it may be difficult for them to realize that he was at one time a ranchman, yet, such is really the case. He is back in minstrelsy because he couldn't stand the lonesomeness of "the back to nature" life.

Before he was twenty-one years old, Mr. Dockstrader was the owner of a theatre in his native city, Hartford, Conn., having first served an apprenticeship with the Whitmore and Clark minstrels and prior to that with the "Young Scamp," a place which he went out from the amateur stage with Harry Bloodgood, who discovered him acting in a church entertainment.

Mr. Dockstrader conducted his Hartford theatre with much success, and later sold out and went to California. There was another minstrel engagement and Mr. Dockstrader went into vaudeville with Charles Dockstrader, who, in spite of his name, was not a relative of his.

Then fourteen years ago he joined hands with George Primrose and they maintained with much success a partnership lasting a little more than five years. Mr. Dockstrader had been a star. Mr. Primrose had been a star. Sometimes Mr. Dockstrader received a little more attention than Mr. Primrose and sometimes vice versa—all that, then Mr. Dockstrader and Mr. Primrose parted company. These two veterans of minstrelsy remained apart for nearly ten years. Mr. Dockstrader had his own show and Mr. Primrose got together. They decided that they both had been more or less hasty when they separated ten years ago. Their consolidated minstrel is the result. Their really phenomenal success is the talk of the theatrical world today. This Primrose and Dockstrader reunion following so closely upon the heels of the Weber and Fields reunion has been a big success—a really wonderful success, and one in which local theatre-goers are showing a proper degree of interest.

MISS WEBBER WILL LEAVE PUBLIC LIBRARY APRIL FIRST

Will Go to Renwick to Live With Sister and Assist in Management of Estate—Miss Lydia Barrett Elected for Post Made Vacant Here.

At the meeting of the public library board Friday afternoon, Miss Lorena Webber tendered her resignation as librarian, to take effect April 1st. Miss Webber will go at that time to Renwick, Iowa, to live with her sister, whose husband died recently, and will assist in the management of his estate. The board accepted the resignation and appointed Miss Lydia Barrett of Davenport, Iowa, to fill the vacancy. Miss Barrett was in charge of the children's department of the Jacksonville library several years ago and is well known to a great many people here in consequence. She is a sister of Mrs. George E. Doying.

The action with reference to a librarian, was the most important taken by the board, practically all of the other business being routine in character. The book list suggested by Miss Webber was approved and the question of changing insurance policies on the building to the eighty per cent basis was referred to a committee consisting of Dr. C. E. Black, W. D. Doying and Judge M. T. Layman. When Miss Webber's resignation was read it was accepted with regret and a committee was named, Dr. R. O. Post, Charles Sanders and J. W. Walton, to draw up a resolution to spread upon the records, giving recognition to the splendid work that Miss Webber has done as librarian.

Miss Webber mentioned that Dr. Baker had offered to give $25 toward the purchase of a set of the new encyclopedia Britannica. A set will cost about $140 and within a few weeks the price will be raised to $198. As the board has only a few hundred dollars a year to use for the purchase of books, it is not deemed wise to use so large a portion of it for any one set and the board welcomes the suggestion that citizens unite in contributions to purchase this very desirable addition to the reference work of the library. One board member offered to give the last $10 of the sum needed. Some other matters of minor importance were discussed and then the board adjourned.

Miss Webber's letter to the board, tendering her resignation was as follows:

Jacksonville, Ill., March 6, 1914.
To the Honorable Board of Directors of the Jacksonville Public Library.

Gentlemen:
I very much regret that it is necessary for me to resign my position as librarian in this library and I should like this resignation to take effect on April 1st. In doing this, I want to express my deep appreciation of the kindness, courtesy and encouragement which the board has universally shown in the past six years. Thanking you for many favors and much consideration, I am very truly yours,

Kena N. Webber.

FORUM LITERARY SOCIETY

SEEN IN CLEVER PLAY

"Who's Who" Pleases Good Sized Audience Friday Evening at High School—The Musical Program.

"Who's Who" or "All in a Fog" was the title of a play given Friday evening at the high school by the Forum Literary society to a large and appreciative audience. The first part of the program consisted of musical numbers, all of which were rendered with understanding and with good technical skill. "Who's Who" the one act farce by Thomas J. Williams was particularly well received. The five participants had their lines well learned and entered with keen zest into the queer story of the events at Brambleton Hall when the retired country gentleman made a mistake in identity and confused the new man-servant with the "model young bachelor" who was recommended to him as a prospective son-in-law. Considerable credit is due Miss Marie Scott for the play's success as the time of preparation was short and it was only by intensive training that the production was brought so near to perfection.

The Model Young Bachelor was very skillfully portrayed by Vernon Quintal. He acted to perfection the part of the pedantic Mr. Swanhopper and entertained the audience exceedingly with his startling peculiarities. Arrayed in a vest of many colors and wearing his "Burnsides" and monochrome with true English nonchalance, the "valet from Mayfair" made a hit with the audience as well as with Matilda Jane, the "Superior Housemaid." This part was played by Kenneth Berryman. Roy Sorrells acted the part of the country gentleman unusually well. He is a freshman in the high school and deserves a great deal of credit for his work. Miss June Pond successfully took the part of the pretty "domesticated" little daughter and won the sympathy of the audience from the start. Last but not least came Matilda Jane, the dashing little housemaid who was charmingly played by Miss Zelda Benson.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 o'clock and the following musical program given before the rendition of the play:

Piano solo—"Polish Dance"Audry Larson.
Violin solo—"Praeludium" . . .Bohm
Frances Bradley.
Vocal solo—"Gypsy John" . . .Clay
Uriel Gouveia.
Duet—"William Tell"Rossini
Alma Mackness and Edith Hillerby.

PNEUMONIA WAS CAUSE OF DEATH

AUTOPSY HELD OVER BODY OF ANTONIO NUNES.

Post Mortem Examination Made by County Physician, Dr. T. O. Hardesty and Dr. H. C. Woltman—Inquest Starts This Morning—Funeral Probably Sunday.

An autopsy was made Friday evening on the body of Antonio Nunes, who was shot by his son Frank, several weeks ago, and died Thursday evening at Passavant hospital, by County Physician Dr. T. O. Hardesty and Dr. H. C. Woltman at the Williamson and Cody undertaking parlors. They gave it as their opinion that pneumonia was the cause of Mr. Nunes' death. Aside from the examining physicians, Dr. W. P. Duncan and Dr. J. U. Day, who attended the case, were called in and questioned. Part of the coroner's jury was present besides T. F. Smith, who is acting as States Attorney and John M. Butler who is associated with Attorney W. N. Hairgrove in the defense.

The post mortem examination started at 7 o'clock and lasted until 10 o'clock. The physicians found that Mr. Nunes had passed through the crisis of the wound, which was healing nicely and according to their findings, pneumonia caused his death.

Inquest Today.

Coroner G. W. Wright returned from Franklin Friday morning and empaneled the following jury. Robert R. Stevenson, foreman, John W. Priest, clerk, John M. Vasconcellos, Lee B. Carroll, Jack De Castro and William A. Taylor. The inquest will be held this morning at 9 o'clock in the circuit room of the Court House. Over sixteen witnesses have been summoned and it is expected that the examinations will continue through Saturday and part of Monday.

Funeral Sunday.

While it has not been definitely announced it is thought that the funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from the family residence.

A WAY OUT

A Resident of Jacksonville Shows The Way.

There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache. Liniment and plasters may relieve it.

But they seldom reach the cause. Backache is cause to suspect the kidneys.

Jacksonville people back them up. Read a case of it.

J. B. Seaver, blacksmith, 346 E. North street, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with fine results and I am pleased to recommend them. I had pains in the small of my back, especially when I tried to straighten, after stooping. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they stopped the pains. They also regulated the action of my kidneys."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Seaver had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
